FOREWORD

The variety of processed, semi-processed and convenience food appearing on the food shelves of the departmental stores in the country reflect a changing socio-economic scenario. This represents an emerging life style required to sustain the developmental phenomena. The rising demographic pressures are accentuating the speed of innovations for the performance of the existing tasks more effectively and efficiently. The traditional food management system likewise is going through transformation. The urban population no longer treats the food and its products a mere means of survival or hunger satisfying mechanism but accept it as manifestation of socio-economic and cultural change. Sudden rise in the sale of processed foods, consumption of casual meals and snacks in the market place indicate changing consumer behaviour placing premium on time and convenience. Whole range of new products are appearing with such speed that it makes difficult at times to gauge the trends correctly.

In order to keep track of these developments, a Directory of Indian Processed Food and Allied Industries has been broughtout. It is expected that the publication would serve as a "display window" for the National's food store, providing concise information on the manufacturing units, products, export performance, packaging materials, additives, quality specifications, food laws and regulations. This compilation will fulfil the information needs of the food and machinery manufacturers, exporters, consultants and overseas importers, besides the R&D organisations and the policy makers.

The Directory concentrates on the secondary and tertiary food processing units in view of the new thrust being given to the development of this sector. The special feature of this Directory is the detail index giving information on the range of products, flavours and additives available in the country.

Nearly one year of effort has gone into the preparation of this Directory. The information has been collected from Food Industries Associations, Govt. Departments, Export Promotion Agencies and individual manufacturing units. As a result of this concerted effort and cooperation extended by all concerned, the valuable information has been collected and compiled. By no means this Directory is complete in every respect. Those who did not respond in spite of reminders have not been included. Yet the coverage is quite comprehensive. About 90-95% of the organised food and allied industries sector in the country has been documented.

This Directory is only a second attempt at Computer classification in the food sector in the country. The first Directory of Food Machinery and Packaging Equipment was brought out in 1987. The Institute would welcome suggestions for improvement and additional information that could be incorporated in the subsequent editions.

4.11 MACHINERY FOR QUALITY CONTROL AND INSPECTION

EXPORT INSPECTION AGENCIES

Five Export Inspection Agencies, one each at Bombay, Calcutta, Cochin, Delhi and Madras were established under Section 7 of the Export (Quality Control and Inspection) Act, 1963 in February 1966, with their Jurisdictions as under:

Export Inspection Agency	States/Union Territories
Bombay	Gujarat, Maharashtra, Dadra and Nagar Haveli, Goa, Daman and Diu.
Calcutta	Assam, Arunachal Pradesh, Andaman and Nicobar Islands, Bihar, Manipur, Meghalaya, Orissa, Tripura, West Bengal, Nagaland, Mizoram and Sikkim
Cochin	Kerala, Karnataka and Lakshadweep.
Delhi	Haryana, Jammu and Kashmir, Madhya Pradesh, Punjab, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh, Delhi, Chandigarh and Himachal Pradesh.
Madras	Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Pondicherry.

Each of these five Agencies has a number of sub-offices for serving the export trade at port towns and industrial centres.

SYSTEMS OF INSPECTION

Three systems of export inspection are in operation, namely, Consignmentwise Inspection, In-process Quality Control and Self-Certification

Consignmentwise Inspection.

Under the Consignmentwise Inspection System each and every export consignment of a notified commodity is subject to Inspection prior to export.

In-process Quality Control

In the In-process Quality Control (IPQC) System, units assessed as having adequate levels of quality control are eligible to get inspection certificates from the Export Inspection Agencies on a formal request. The Agencies exercise technical surveillance on these approved units through periodic visits and spot checks of export consignments. A similar system which is inoperation for Fish & Fishery Products is known as Modified In-process Quality Control (MIPQC) System.

Self-Certification

During the year under review, efforts were made to motivate more manufacturing units to upgrade their Quality Control Systems and qualify for Self-Certification. But the response was not encouraging from the indusltry. Probably, they did not wish to make sizeable investment in this regard owing to their limited stakels in exports. At the same time, the Council was strongly of the view that there could be no dilution of the norms. On the other hand, a few additional norms were brought into force during the year after considerable thought. These are as follows:

Existence of a well laid-out Quality Manual incorporating the quality policy of the unit including the policy on vendor-vendee relations and in operation for at least one preceding year.

Existence of distinct Materials Management Department for at least one preceding year.

Operation of a separate Quality Audit Department to ensure the outgoing quality of the product of the unit.

5.2 INDIAN FOOD LAWS

1. Agricultural Produce (Grading & Marketing) Act 1937 [AGMARK]

This is one of the oldest Food Laws Promulgated in the country. This Act is administered by the Directorate of Marketing & Inspection with Agricultural Marketing Advisor to the Government of India, Faridabad, as its chairman. "Agricultural Produce" includes all produce of Agriculture or Horticulture & all articles of food or drink wholly or partly manufactured from any such produce. A number of grading standards of raw or processed agricultural or horticultural produce have been brought out by the AGMARK which include oils, fats, essential oils, spices, condiments, plantation products, etc. The Directorate of Marketing & Inspection operates a certification scheme under AGMARK for scheduled articles covered under the Act. Any organisation or packer who wants to use 'AGMARK' symbol on the label of the sample containers can apply to the authorities. The authorities after inspection & ensuring that the necessary facilities like equipment, laboratory etc. are available, allows them to use AGMARK symbol which ensures that the quality standards laid down for that product under AGMARK have been complied with. This gives a sort of quality assurance to the consumers.

2. Fruit Products Order 1955 [FPO]

The Fruit Products Order 1955 was issued by the Department of Food, Ministry of Food & Civil supplies under the powers vested in the Government under the Essential commodities Act. This order controls production, distribution & quality of the Fruit & Vegetable products manufactured in the country as well as Registration, Licensing & operation of manufacturing units. Under this order, the central Government has constituted a committee called Central Fruit Products Advisory Committee to advise the Department of Food on any matter pertaining to Fruit & Vegetable Preservation Industry.

The various provisious of the FPO are being implemented by the Director, Fruit & Vegetable Preservation attached to the Department of Food with the assistance of Zonal deputy directors stationed at Madras, Bombay, New Delhi & Calcutta & large number of technical staff. 'FPO' Mark is given to each processor after the grant of licence which is required to be embossed on each processed item along with other information as laid down in the FPO Rules. Continuous inspection scheme & Pre-shipment inspection scheme are being exercised under the FPO especially regarding export oriented Fruit & Vegetable Products.

3. Sugar (control) Order 1966

Indigenous Production of raw sugar & its quality are controlled primarily under this order. The Directorate of sugar, Ministry of Agriculture & Rural Development is the operating authority of this order. The quality of sugar is specified in terms of its colour & size. Detailed quality standards have been specified under the provisious of PFA Act 1954 & Rules there of.

4. (a) Vegetable Oil Products (Control) Order, 1947
   (b) The solvent extracted Oil, deoiled meal & edible flour (control) order 1967.
   (c) Vanaspati Control Order, 1975

These orders have been promulgated under The Essential Commodities Act, 1955, by the Central Government & Covers Commodities like Vanaspati, Margarine, Bakery shortening, edible vegetable oils, edible flour, meal etc. The Directorate of Vanaspati, Ministry of food & Civil supplies is the operating authority. Registration, Licencing, manufacture & Distribution are all controlled by this Directorate.

7. BUREAU OF INDIAN STANDARDS

The then Indian Standards Institution has been constituted under the Act of parliament which deals with standardisation of various articles including food. Agriculture Food Division Council (AFDC) deals with quality standards of various articles of food. This organisation prepares National standards for various articles of food in consultation with the experts in the country. The certification scheme under ISI is a voluntary one & any manufacturer who wants to use ISI Mark on his food product applies for the same to the authorities. The authorities after inspection & other formalities permit the manufacturer to use ISI Mark on their product. ISI symbol on any product ensures quality to the consumers. Recently ISI has been renamed as Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS).

8. The Standards of Weights & Measures Act 1976

It is an Act enacted by the parliament (No. 60 of 1976) to establish standards of Weights & Measures, to regulate inter-state trade or commerce in weights, measures & other goods which are sold or distributed by weight, measures or number & to provide for matters connected therewith or incidental there to.

The Central Government in consultation with the State Governments may delegate some powers of the 'Director' to the 'Controller', office of the controller of Legal Metrology for speedy & strict enforcement of the provisions of the Act & Rules thereof including packaged commodities.

9. Prevention of Food Adulteration Act 1954 & Rules 1955

The Prevention of Food adulteration Act was promulgated in 1954 & is primarily intended to check adulteration of foodstuffs available in the country. The rules & regulations that are formulated for operation of this Act are directed to make available pure food materials devoid of adulterants & contaminants to the Indian population at large. The rules include, among others, specifications for a large number of raw & processed foods which are of main importance in the trade. The Central Government has appointed an advisory committee called Central Committee for Food Standards (C.C.F.S.) to consider all aspects pertaining to PFA including revision and formulation of standards for various articles of foods. The various provisions of PFA Act formulated at Central level have to be implemented at States & Local bodies' levels. The list of Natural/coaltar food colours, preservatives, Antioxidants, Emulsifying & stabilizing agents including miscellaneous food additives, limits for heavy metal contaminants & pesticide residues are given as annexures to this chapter.

10. The Consumer Protection Act 1986

This Act operated by the Ministry of Food & Civil supplies is enacted recently where consumers through recognised consumer organisations can play the role of Food inspector under PFA Act in the case of adulterated food samples. Rules are yet to be formulated for implementation at state levels.

Explanation: For the purposes of this rule:

a. The expression "insecticide" shall have the meaning assigned to it in the Insecticide Act, 1968 (46 of 1968);

b. Unless otherwise stated -

i. Maximum levels are expressed in mg/kg on a whole product basis

ii. All foods refer to raw agricultural products moving in commerce

PART XVI- SEQUESTERING AND BUFFERRING AGENTS (ACIDS, BASES AND SALTS)

70. Definition of sequestering agents:- The sequestering agents are substances which prevent adverse effect of metals catalysing the oxidative breakdown of foods forming chelates; thus inhibiting decolourisation, off taste and rancidity.

71. Definition of buffering agents:- Buffering agents are materials used to counter acidic and alkaline changes during storage or processing steps, thus improving the flavour and increasing the stability of foods.

72. Restrictions on the use of sequestering and buffering agents: Unless otherwise provided in these rules the sequestering and buffering agents specified in column (1) of the Table below, may be used in the groups of food specified in the corresponding entry in column (2) of the said Table, in concentration not exceeding the proportions specified in the corresponding entry in column (3) of the said Table:

Name of sequestering and buffering agents	Groups of food	Maximum level of use (parts per million) (ppm) (mg/kg)
1. Acetic Acid	(i) Acidulant, buffering and neutralising agents in beverages, soft drinks	Limited by G.M.P.
	(ii) in canned baby foods	5,000
2. Adipic acid	Salt substitute and dietary food	250
3. Ammonium Phosphate monobasic	Bread improver in flour	2,500
